The Mirror Board of Trade

The Board of Trade meeting was held on Friday after the usual dinner. With Mr. Bell in the chair the minutes of the previous meeting were dealt with. The committee asked to get in touch with the Superintendent of Car Equipment, Edmonton, were asked for a report, but intimated that so far no word had been received.

With regard to the proposal of holding two meetings of the Board of Trade, at noon and evening, same was rejected.

Arrangements were made to hold a special banquet on Monday Dec. 17th, at which to bring up some speakers from Calgary and also send invitations to the nearby points. The banquet is to be held in the town hall, the charge will be 75c.

Mr. McDonald was called upon for his address on Co-operative Marketing, which has been anticipated by everyone. He pointed out some of the benefits derived from co-operation among the farmers in the marketing of their products. Showing that a central selling head eliminated to a large extent manipulations and speculation in the farmer's commodity, he exemplified how such an organization enables a greater scope for markets abroad mentioning the wheat market in the Orient through the efforts of the Wheat Pool. The speaker touched on Canada's economic problem, going back to days gone by when the farmer and the manufacturer or "wagon maker" as Mr. McDonald put it, were both on a level, exchanging their products without the medium of currency, thereby receiving value for value. Following up he gave the history of the progress made in our land, showing how the farmer and the manufacturer alike, had increased their production that they were compelled to look elsewhere for a market. This state of affairs necessitated the use of a medium by which to dispose of the product, and in the case of the farmer, unlimited opportunities sprang up for the profiteer to gouge the unsuspecting farmer, of which the farmer was quick to take advantage. On the other hand, Mr. McDonald described how the manufacturer had organized and established his business, by the coalition of capital and careful supervision.

Mr. McDonald emphasized that until the farmer's product was sold and that the longer it took to finally place the commodity in the hands of the consumer the more would be the farmer's loss. Mr. McDonald stated that the only remedy for this was the co-operation of the farmers in helping to strengthen their marketing organizations, whereby to entail the least possible cost of selling. He also pointed out that a misunderstanding usually exists between the farmer and business man, for reasons of which the man in town is not responsible and that sometimes the citizen has an inclination to feel prejudiced against the farmer. The speaker advised that a proper understanding between these two principles would help both parties and tend towards the harmony of the town and country people.

Reward and Garnet, New Wheat Varieties, Now Holding Attention of Western Growers

Mr. L. H. Newman, Dominion Cerealist of the Experimental Farm, returned to the East recently from an extensive tour of Western Canada. During the trip practically every wheat growing area was visited. Mr. Newman states that the newer wheats, Reward and Garnet, are holding the attention of the western growers.

Some 187 farmers are this year testing Reward wheat. The variety is reported to have done well, though actual figures on yield, etc., have not yet been compiled. Mr. Newman says that it had been impossible to determine anything definite with regard to this variety's rust resisting qualities because there was practically no rust in Manitoba and very little elsewhere. Conditions generally in the west Mr. Newman describes as distinctly above the average.

Particularly good are the reports on Garnet wheat, one of the originals of the Experimental Farm. Writing on the subject of this remarkable wheat early this year, the Dominion Cerealist stated: "The history of Garnet wheat is almost an epic in the realm of scientific achievement. It reveals a story of almost half a century of patient and determined effort, replete with discouragements and disappointments but rewarded ultimately by definite and indisputable gain."

In 1914 Garnet wheat was included in the regular variety test-plots at the Experimental Farm. In 1919 it was tested at the Experimental Farm in the Prairie Provinces. In 1925 the branch farms were able to see 220 acres, from which was produced about 9,700 bushels.

In 1926, some 6,054 bushels of Garnet seed were offered to prairie farmers, with a four-bushel limit. Some 2,825 farmers, including 862 soldier settlers, secured two to four bushels each, and this together with seed from increasing test samples by two or three seed growers, made a grand total of some 14,000 bushels, or enough to seed 12,000 acres.

This year Garnet wheat was observed growing in all parts of the West. The section between the Peace River and north of Tule Lake is practically a Garnet country. It is an early maturing wheat, and produces a high proportion of grain to straw. This season serious frost in Saskatchewan on August 22 damaged the immature wheat, but Garnet demonstrated its ability to mature before the frost. It usually ripens a day or two before Ruby, from six to twelve days ahead of Marquis and three or four days before Reward. This variety has also behaved well under drought conditions.

In 1925 it was reported wheat would never grow in the Peace River country. This year Garnet was being cut here on August 21. Crops were more advanced in the Peace River district than further south, and some of the west's best crops were being cut here. Dr. J. H. Grisdale, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, and Mr. L. H. Newman, driving through the Rio Grande section of the Peace River on August 22, were able to identify 31 varieties of wheat, and of these 16 were Garnet. 7 Marquis, 1 Huron, 1 Turkey Red, 1 Ruby and 1 Toward.

This indicates the way in which Garnet wheat is spreading in the west. As an early maturing and good yielder, it has no equal, and one more the Experimental Farm Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture must be credited with an epoch-making contribution to Canadian agriculture.

Fort Churchill Harbor

Expropriation Proceedings Under Way to Secure Property Preliminary arrangements for expropriation proceedings in regard to property at Fort Churchill are under way in Ottawa. Judge H. A. Robson, of Winnipeg, is acting for the Dominion government and the private owners are the descendants of William Beach, well known Winnipeg old-timer who was so ardent a believer in the Fort Churchill terminus to the Hudson Bay Railroad that he bought a large tract of territory at this point many years ago.

The Beach estate owns the narrow strip of land running between the harbor and the sea and it is along the inner shore of this peninsula that the harbor works are being constructed.

How, then, did the land come into the hands of the government? The answer is that the land was sold to the government by the Beach estate in 1904, and the government has since been paying for it.

Wrong Impression of Canada

English Paper Gives World Account of Primitive Conditions The woman's page editor of the Vancouver Province says: "There isn't a Canadian who of some time or other doesn't blame the fact that Canada is regarded as the Land of Ignorance by English people. Nearly every person has some amusing story to tell of an Englishman who came to Vancouver looking for bears, or Indians, or who showed surprise at the discovery that this country is in no way different from any other as far as convenience are concerned."

"It is somewhat surprising to pick up a well-known English daily and see in staring headlines, 'A Bridge Across the Pacific'—'Positively Equaled'—'English Hostess Makes the Best of Her Primitive Home in the Wilds'—And there follows a long account of a trip to the wilds of West Vancouver to a harmless biotope party where the guests regaled themselves on sandwiches, seated on packing boxes or beds."

"No one would argue about the truth of the affair. It may be so, but why a resident of British Columbia should undertake to send items to England stressing the primitive state of this part of Canada is understandable. So, perhaps, our education needs to start at home before we try to impress our importance on other countries."

Shows How British Columbia Was Settled For Canada By Work of Early Pioneers

Wintering Bees Outside

Tells How Bees Are Successfully Wintered Out-of-doors

At the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa a large number of colonies of bees are successfully wintered out-of-doors each year. In his report for 1927, the Dominion Apiarist tells how the bees are protected and fed. The cases used are four-column and two-column and single cases are also used. In packing, planer shavings are used of which three inches is placed under the hives, four or five inches above their sides, and six inches to eight inches on the top. Thirty-eight colonies were wintered on honey and forty-four on sugar syrup. Of those wintered on honey, thirty received shavings of straw, chambers, and eight received deep ones. The bees were able to fly up until November 5 and after February 21. Towards the end of April when the colonies were examined it was found that those wintered on honey were in worse shape than those on sugar syrup fed group. Eight of the colonies died, of which six received honey and two received syrup. Thirty received shavings of straw, chambers, and eight received deep ones. In all the five colonies the number of frames covered by the bees averaged 6.5 per colony.

Britishers Who Stick

Ninety-Five Per Cent of Emigrants From Britain Have Made Good

Notwithstanding the concentrated efforts of a well-organized, though blatant coterie of Communists, ten thousand British immigrants have to the prairies, and an unexpected high percentage of them are remaining to meet the challenge that is Canada. That challenge of this great Dominion is one that often finds the winner the best there is in life, exemplified by the fact that an immigrant of two decades ago is a senior member of the federal cabinet.

Less than five per cent of the ten thousand immigrants have gone back, among these are some physically unfit, others mentally unbalanced. Some came with the purpose of making the trip a vacation junk, many others came with "Canadian" instruction to foment trouble—and yet 95 per cent remain.

It is an outstanding record for the powers of communism who sought to bring discredit upon both the British workers and upon the Canadian workers, and the fact that the type with much too tolerant kindness—Canadian friends.

A Billion Bushel Crop

Prediction Is Made That Canada Will Produce This Much Wheat

Wheat Is Short Time The 520,000,000 bushel wheat crop which Canada is harvesting this year, led the "Grain World," of Chicago, in a recent issue to predict that within a comparatively short time the wheat production of Canada will total 1,000,000,000 bushels annually.

If this happens, and the estimate is based on a consideration of the trend of wheat production during the last decade, it will result in a tremendous expansion in railway building, elevator construction, sales of agricultural machinery, and general manufacturing. The total wheat production of the world this year is estimated to be 2,600,000,000 bushels or 20,000,000 bushels more than last year.

With Russia still importing wheat, the Oriental demand growing, the domestic demand increasing with the growth in population, it is logical to assume that the wheat production in Canada will continue to increase.

Not Allowed to Forget

A fellow who does not often go to the races attended a meeting one day and had his wallet stolen. This fact he was unwillingly forced to report to his wife. The story of his misfortune got around and one day a business acquaintance said to him: "Have you heard anything about your wallet?" "Yes," replied the owner, "I have, morning—noon—and night!"

Had it not been for Sir George Simpson, governor of the Hudson's Bay Company, whose historic visit to the Pacific coast a hundred years ago was celebrated recently the province of British Columbia would be in the possession of the United States, and Canada would have no outlet to the Pacific Ocean.

Perhaps this statement, made by Mr. Charles Vincent Salt, president of the company of the Company of Adventurers, did more than anything else to impress on the minds of those gathered at Fort St. James, B.C., for the centenary of the importance of the exploits of the man who has been called the Cecil Rhodes of Canada. The romance of a century ago was brought vividly before their eyes in a picture which resurrected Simpson's journeying across the wide stretches that ultimately became the Dominion, but after all, the living picture of the governor and his retinue arriving at the fort could not even indicate the far-reaching effect of the man who was to have in the history of North America.

"For St. James in those days," said Governor Salt, "was the west of an empire. The British occupation, a centre of government." He went on to tell of the story of Spain to all the coast south of the Russian possession of Spitz's, waiving her claims in favor of the United States.

"Our Canadian neighbors," he said, "were disposed to believe that the title was clear to all the south of the Russian possessions, and so it might have been but for the fur trade and for such men as Alexander MacKenzie, Simon Fraser, John Stuart and Sir George Simpson."

It was in the struggle between the Northwest Company and the Hudson's Bay Company for the country west of an empire. The Hudson's Bay Company, founded by Sir James Simpson in 1800. The Astorians came and vanished and in 1821 the United States created the country to the Pacific Coast and Sir George Simpson became the Hudson's Bay Company's governor. Three years later, Simpson's headquarters in the Columbia district in shape and save the coast from the United States and Russia, crossed the country to the Pacific Coast, making the journey in 84 days, 30 days less than any previous record, and established the company's headquarters in such a way as to mark the limits of what he thought should be British territory on the north and south.

Originals Use Old Papers

Manufacturers of Fireworks and Novelties Find Them Indispensable

Old newspapers may be a problem to you, but in China and Japan they are practically indispensable.

Reports to the U.S. Shipping Board show that old newspapers constitute a large demand for ships' cargo destined for Oriental ports. One day recently newspapers shipped from Los Angeles alone weighed 500,000 pounds.

Oriental firecracker and novelty manufacturers use the papers in their products. Total shipments for 1927 to the Orient amounted to 7,001,000 pounds, valued at $683,425.

Compulsory Marking of Eggs

Buyers in England Would Know Product Was Canadian

In consideration of the fact that there is apparently a growing demand in the British Isles for Canadian importations of agricultural products—especially butter and eggs, the Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries of the United Kingdom has now recommended through the committee appointed to deal with the matter, that an order in council should be made prohibiting the sale of eggs in foreign countries for export to England unless they are marked.

The regulations as to marking are that every egg shall be marked deeply in ink in letters at least one-eighth of an inch high. Every egg shall bear this mark—the name of the country from which the eggs are to be shipped. This information was set out in a bulletin issued by the Saskatchewan Department of Agriculture.

Further this report states, the motive for such an action is to assure the buyers of the Old Land that they are getting products of the highest quality in the United Kingdom. There is undoubtedly a growing demand for this trade, and in view of the fact that the Imperial government has recently taken steps to make such restrictions as will invariably raise the standard of the Canadian product, there is every likelihood of there being a huge increase in the trade in agricultural products in the near future.

This increased interest on the part of the consumers should be appreciated by Canadians, this report intimates. In view of the fact that up to date the exports of such commodities have been rather low as compared with other countries in the Empire or without.

"This action was taken by the Empire Marketing Board to encourage the egg consumers to buy Canadian products, and that this idea of marking them with indelible ink so that the names of the country would not be destroyed even after the egg was hatched, would assist them in their natural desire to patronize Empire products," pointing the report further.

Figures showing Canadian exports to the United Kingdom for July this year show the following result: Dressed poultry was exported to the value of $2,060; butter to the amount of 4,488 cwt.; and eggs to the value of $47,165, as compared with a total importation value of eggs to the United Kingdom of $2,828.

Fish From Northern Lakes

Thousands of Pounds Shipped From Alberta to Eastern Cities

The map of Canada is being rolled back so far as the economic handling of fish from the northern lakes is concerned, according to the progress made in the shipment of Lake Athabasca trout and whitefish to such markets as Chicago, New York, Toronto, says the Financial News. The fishing being carried on by two companies at Lake Athabasca, in Alberta, constitutes the most enterprising commercial operation in Canada, the extent of which is indicated by R. T. H. Ford, Federal Inspector of Fisheries, who on his recent return from an inspection trip stated that 62,000 pounds of trout and 4,000 pounds of whitefish were taken from the lake in the first three days of the summer fishing season.

First Grain Shipment to Spain

The first shipment of wheat from Montreal to Spain left the other day—201,132 bushels. Wheat shipments to foreign countries last year amounted to 118,227,726 bushels from Montreal, but not a single bushel was exported to Spain among the seven foreign countries to which grain was consigned. This is said to be the first shipment of grain ever made to Spain.

Canada Has Extinct Volcano

Geologists Working in B. C. Say Eruption Occurred 300 Years Ago

Less than 300 years ago Canada possessed an active volcano. In the opinion of explorers who have been studying the mountains north of Alice Arm, in the northeastern section of British Columbia.

The volcano, according to authorities, is now definitely dead and there is now no danger of further eruption. There were apparently two pronounced eruptions which have left their traces and they were separated by a period long enough to allow lava to cool. The first eruption blew out a crater about 400 yards in diameter. After a period of quiescence sufficiently long to form a hard and level floor in the crater there was a second eruption which formed a cone or shape of cinder, within the original crater, 300 feet long with a crater 250 feet deep. It was from the base of this cone that the lava flow proceeded.

From the volcano the lava flowed down a creek valley in a stream 300 yards wide until it entered the valley of the Tseax River. Crossing this river to the west side, it completely dammed the stream, forming or creating a lake. The lava here turned north and continued down the valley of the Tseax in a stream 2,000 feet wide, as far as the Naas River. By the time it reached the Naas the lava had lost much of its fluidity and the great river was not dammed, although the lava spread out down the left bank for six miles. Indians living near the extinct volcano say that the last eruption was about 300 years ago. They discovered trees 170 years old growing on the edge of the lava. They place the time of the eruption at about 300 years ago.

Cost of Raising Dairy Heifers

Record Is Kept at Experimental Station in New Brunswick

An accurate record of the cost of raising dairy heifers was kept at the Fredericton, New Brunswick, experimental station. Out of 17 heifers including one Ayrshire and two Holsteins, were kept and fed together from birth until they were one year old. They were fed on whole milk until from four to six weeks old and then gradually on 100 per cent. whole milk. The calves were three months old when received in addition to the skim milk, one part of three and one part of one. The amount fed depending upon the age and condition of the calves. They also received hay roots and some dry grain. The composition of the dry grain mixture was varied from time to time but was made up chiefly of three parts of oats, two parts of crushed oats, one part of oats, and one part of brewer's grains. The aim in feeding was to keep the calves growing and to avoid a setback. The superintendent of the station, in his 1927 report, published by the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, shows the detail of the feeding and the cost of the feed, which amounted to $45 for the three calves during the year.

Canadian Cattle for Australia

Shipment of Purebred Stock to Be Sent from Brandon, Man.

The Australian government has just completed a deal for eighteen foundation heifers and two bulls from J. D. McGregor and Sons, the well-known Aberdeen Angus breeders of Brandon. The animals will be selected from Mr. McGregor's Glenora herd by the head breeder of the Australian government and shipped by the Canadian Pacific Railway by way of Vancouver. This shipment, apart from some purchased dairy cattle for the Orient from British Columbia, is said to be the first exportation of purebred cattle from Canada overseas.

Conditions Have Changed

The pioneer who came to Canada 100 years ago, cut off his bridges behind him. He spent his last cent to get here, hundreds of miles of forest and stream, and he was a sick weary ocean voyager after that. The only way out was to work, to work for thirty, forty, fifty years and some day he might revisit his homeland at his own expense.

What is thought to be the world's biggest tortoise arrived at the London Zoo recently. It weighs about 200 pounds, is three feet long and long, and is nearly 100 years old.

Scientist Denounces War

Always Loves Something to Be Settled, Says Sir Oliver Lodge

Sir Oliver Lodge's recent discourse on war created considerable attention throughout England due to the scientist's strong language.

"War is ugly, disgraceful, dirty, objectionable business," he said in a presidential address to the Federation of Southern Counties Brotherhood.

"We ought to be ashamed of it. Digging ourselves into the mud and pretending to be 'civilized people.' Crawling about under the water and sinking each other's vessels is no occupation for gentlemen."

"Gentlemen must be taken to somebody that settles them. War does not settle anything, but leaves something to be settled."

Russian Colony in Paris

Refugees Fleeing From Bolsheviks Accepted Work in France

The Russian revolution added to Paris a foreign colony which now contributes more to the flavor of the city than any other alien group. France was the first European country to offer wholesale asylum to the millions of the Russian nobility who they poured across their borders ahead of the Bolshevik terror. France offered these gently born and reared people work, and they accepted it eagerly. Some 300,000 eventually established themselves in Paris, about one-fifth of these in Paris.

English bank rate remains unchanged.

An Ancient Landmark makes way for Progress

History on these western prairies has been lived within the past fifty years. Many a man and woman, in the provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta, remember the day when the first shingled house was built, when the brick arrived for the first public building.

There was recently brought to the attention of the Canadian Pacific officials an old building at Cassia, Alberta. It was rapidly falling to pieces, the queer structure in the manner in which it should be destroyed. Quaries were made but no memory reached back to the day

Made Fortune in Northland

Prosperer Taking Trip for First Time in Thirty-Three Years

Horner Morrison, from the silver camp at Keno, Yukon Territory, is bound for the outside world for the first time in a generation.

Morrison has relatives back in Woodstock, Ont. and many of these he has not seen since the beginning of the present century. Others have been born and grown up since he went away in the spring of 1880 to seek his fortune in the northland.

Morrison was there for the first gold stampede and in 1886 he camped on the site of Dawson, which was to become the hub of the northern universe. Since then he has lived continuously in the Yukon, following placer mining in the Dawson district until 1918, when he went to Keno and staked a quartz claim the following year.

"Yes, I've enough of the world's goods to keep me from worrying," admitted Morrison, who cleaned up a fortune when he sold his holding to the "Crownfield" Yukon Limited. "But I'm not getting the Yukon. I'll never feel rich enough for that. Money can't always buy happiness and I'll be happy only in the north. Six months of civilization, Morrison thinks, will be enough. Then he'll hit the northern train again."

No Waste in China

People Are Extremely Careful and Make Things Last Indefinitely

As a nation we are rather inclined to be unkind of waste. The Chinese are just the reverse. They waste nothing, and seem to have the knack of making household goods, for instance, last indefinitely.

As a result of this craze for economy crowds of tinkers, cobblers, and menders of all kinds are able to earn enough money to supply their few needs.

A mender of china wares was called Poo Kooj and through the streets he wanders in his happy-go-lucky way, seeking work. Across his bare shoulders is suspended a box of tools at the end of a long bamboo pole, and as he goes he cries out his calling in loud accents.

Every now and then a door opens and the owner of the house gives the Poo Kooj some dimes or other household crockery to mend. A look of content spreads over his face, for he depends largely on his customers for his morning and evening bowls of rice, which to him mean all the difference between happiness and the reverse.

He sits down then and there, quite oblivious of the fierce sun that beats down upon him while he performs his task.

Planning Against Air Attacks

Considering Means to Counteract Effect of Gas Bombs in London

Novel measures to counteract the effect of deadly gas-bombs dropped on London are being considered, but future wars are being considered, but such expedients as are suggested would cost enormous sums and would provide only a small measure of protection against such a destructive force as could be launched, judging by the recent mock air attack that London experienced.

Emergency supplies of gas masks for every man, woman and child would be a measure of safety. Another would be the installation at every air-net of the ordinary house of "masks" of chemical antidotes, which would render each house gas-proof. A third precaution is the training of special gas squads, men wearing gas protection, and trucks and equipped with a spraying mechanism to lay and neutralize gas clouds in the streets.

And the provision of "community" dugouts is suggested by subsidizing motor companies to build four and five room houses underground on the condition that there could be used as bomb-proof shelter in time of war for large numbers of people.

On the subject of gas-bomb protection it is estimated that in actual warfare at least 500 tons of bombs would be required to cause serious damage on the capital. Although some raiding formations suffered heavy losses from anti-aircraft guns and the defending fighters, more than half the "enemy" bombers evaded the defence. The time factor is stressed by those who figure that at least 11 attacks were in progress before the many planes had been in sight of London for more than an hour.

Devoting Time to Writing

Sir Conan Doyle Giving Up Lectures on the Subliminal

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, noted English spiritualist and parent mind of Sherlock Holmes, has abandoned his vigorous missionary campaign on behalf of spiritualism.

The steadily increasing strain which his growing demands upon his time for lectures has brought during the past few years has resulted in his partial retirement from the world of Occultism, he says.

Sir Arthur's retirement was fore-shadowed in the international Psychic Cabinet, and he confirmed the report declaring he desired to devote more time to writing.

"My remuneration of writing on a larger scale, however, does not mean the resurrection of Sherlock Holmes," he said.

"I am simply abandoning my lecturing and church work due to the demands upon my time. It must not be taken to indicate that I have lost interest in spiritualism."

Sir Arthur will sail October 25 for South Africa, the only English-speaking one of the world's variables, but has not yet lectured, and will give a series of talks there—"to complete my life's work," he said.

First Shoes Were "Straights"

The "made in Canada" shoe first appeared in 1807. For several years Canadian-made shoes were in the form of "straights" and it was not until 1858 flats and rights were introduced into Canada's shoe industry. As late as 1890 "straights" were still manufactured in Canada.

The Progress of Canada

Canada is forging steadily, even rapidly, to the front among the nations of the world. In all things material it is making great growth. Its trade, both domestic and foreign, is expanding as never before, and as a result every branch of industry is active. The country has just harvested one of the largest crops in its history, mining discoveries and operations are proceeding on an unprecedented scale, factories are working overtime, building operations in all provinces are reaching totals hitherto unrecorded, with the result that employment is general, wages good, and population increasing.

Important and gratifying as this material growth and prevailing prosperity is to our people, a much more vital matter is Canada's whether the Dominion is likewise making progress in those other directions which are essential to the upbuilding of a nation in the true sense. Are the Canadian people becoming merely a nation of money-seekers, measuring their progress in terms of dollars and statistics, recording economic development and growth, or are they utilizing the larger advantages and increased power which material prosperity is conferring upon them to encourage and develop these arts and characteristics which stamp a people as truly advancing to greatness?

We believe signs generally point to the fact that the people of Canada are, taken as a whole, more intensely interested today in the spiritual, intellectual, moral growth of their people than at any previous period, that, in fact, they are deeply concerned, and very determined that the national ideals and character shall be maintained at a high level.

The widespread interest in and discussion of the subject of immigration is but one manifestation of this spirit. Considered solely from a material standpoint it would probably pay Canada to enormously increase its population just as rapidly as possible. Economically Canada would probably gain by absorption by the United States. But Canadians are insistent that quality rather than quantity shall be the governing factor in our immigration policy, and it would be hard to muster a corps of guard of out-standing men who favor the policy of United States annexation.

Throughout Canada increasing sympathetic attention is being given to the assimilation of the non-British peoples within our borders into the Canadian family. Here and there people may adopt an unfriendly and unkind attitude towards these people, and to that extent retard the good work, but they are exceptions to the general rule. Canadians more and more are realizing that these people are making a real contribution to the national life of Canada, bringing to us music, poetry, traditions and handicrafts which are enriching this Dominion.

The increased attention being given to musical festivals and symphony orchestras, to the establishment of art galleries and museums, to scientific research, to literature and the rapidly increasing number of libraries and to the steady improvement in Canadian magazines and publications of a better class, all go to prove that the people of Canada are not wholly materially minded.

The wonderful success which has attended the application of co-operative principles in the solution of production and marketing problems, and in the provision of public service for the use of all the people, is having its inevitable effect upon the minds of all people. To an ever increasing extent they are beginning to realize that if through loyal co-operation they can remedy material evils and advance their individual and corporate welfare, through the acceptance of the same principles and their application to all phases of community, provincial and national life they can greatly advance the welfare of the country as a whole.

Cooperation is better than competition or antagonism. Sympathetic consideration and helpful co-operation is better than hatred and the maintenance of bitter enmities. In the practical work of co-operation the Canadian people are learning that there are two sides to almost every question, that people who may differ with you are just as sincere as you are, that the road to ultimate success and the greatest good to the greatest number lies along the path of friendly compromise rather than in continual enmity and warfare.

Canada's progress is, therefore, a well balanced progress, and because of this gratifying fact the people of the Dominion may look to the future with unbounded confidence to the future of their great country.

To Aid Farm Workers

Clearing House to Furnish Winter Farm Employment May be Established

While no definite decision has been reached yet, a central clearing house, from which British winter-harvesters will be furnished winter employment, may be located in Regina. The establishment of such a bureau, though not necessarily in this city, is expected to be the outcome of a conference held at the Parliament Buildings, Regina, on September 12, attended by representatives of the Federal and Provincial Departments of Colonization, those of the two great railways, the Government Labor Service and the United Farmers of Canada, Saskatchewan section.

RHEUMATIC MISERY

Relief Can Only Come Through Better Blood—Liniments of No Use

In no other disease does the blood become thin so rapidly as in rheumatism. Not only does it become thin but it is loaded with impurities—rheumatic poisons. Without the proper treatment these poisons increase, the damaged joints swell and the patient becomes a cripple. Most treatments simply aim to keep down the pain, instead of with every unfavorable condition a renewed attack follows.

To get out rheumatism the blood must be enriched and the rheumatic poisons driven out with the natural circulation of the body. This can be done through a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills which have a specific action on the blood, giving it new richness and redness. Thousands have tried this treatment, with beneficial results. That every sufferer from rheumatism who does not try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is neglecting the only hopeful remedy known.

As shown by the statement of Mr. David Carroll, Picton, N. S., who says: "For years I was troubled with rheumatism. The pains were not continuous, but they were severe, and kept getting worse. I tried so-called electric belts and many medicines, but did not get more than temporary relief. Only those who have suffered from this ailment will realize what I suffered at times. I had begun to despair of getting better when a friend suggested me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. In a short time I could feel the blood flowing freely through my veins. I found taking the pills and soon found that the blood was getting better and there was a great improvement in my general health. It is now two years since I took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I have not had the least twinge of the trouble in that time. That is why I can't get enough of the pills to write you."

Junior League of British Nations

Proposal to Form Branch of British Empire Parliamentary Association

"To the British Empire, at least, it would be a real junior league of British nations," stated M. A. MacPherson, M.L.A. for the Regina constituency, when speaking of the proposal of the government of Saskatchewan to consider the advisability of forming a branch of the British Empire Parliamentary association.

The Regina member further expressed his opinion that such an organization, having as it does, the aim of trying to bring the different nations and colonies of the British Empire into closer understanding and contact with each other, would most certainly be a splendid one for the province to adopt.

It is proposed that at the next sessions of the legislatures of the four provinces of Ontario, Saskatchewan, Alberta and Manitoba, this scheme be presented to the members of the respective assemblies and with their approval the work of the association be definitely undertaken.

Canadian Amateur Golf Championship

Will Be Held at Jasper Park Lodge
Next Year From August 19 to 24

Authentic information was received at Jasper National Park by the visiting Senior Golfers from Great Britain that the United States National Amateur golf tournament will be held next year over Pebbles Beach, Calif., from September 2 to 7. With these dates now definitely assured it is also possible to state positively that the Canadian Amateur championships will be held over the Jasper Park Lodge golf course next year from August 19 to 24.

As the details of the championship for these two important dates in the golfing program for 1929 leaves an interval of a full week between the Canadian and U. S. Amateur events and it is more than likely, therefore, that the Canadian championships will attract a large number from the gallery of stars in the United States and other countries who will be westward bound for the U. S. event. Should these hopes be fulfilled, and every effort is to be made by the Royal Canadian Golf Association and the Canadian National Railways to bring them to fruition, the 1929 Canadian Amateur championship will be the greatest event in the history of golf in Canada.

How French Police Work

Use Soundless Whistles to Give Alarm to Headquarters. Police men in most of the large French towns can summon help without being heard. They are supplied with whistles whose notes are far too high-pitched for the human ear to detect. These inaudible sound waves are picked up by microphones skilfully camouflaged throughout the city, and an alarm is flashed to central police headquarters. A policeman who sees a burglar at work can summon reinforcements without alarming the suspect. He can, too, direct the sending of aid in Morse code by using the soundless whistle.

Fresh from his exercises and shower, his chest red, his dark eyes shining with the clear glow of health, his step springy and free, Donald was a picture of rugged health and strength. But for all this apparent outward brightness, inwardly he felt rebellious. Douglas's invitation had brought a great longing for the comforts of his past life. Why should he assume the role of a pugilist to eke out an existence? Why wear shabby clothes and even know the pangs of hunger? He had but to wire his father that he was destitute and plenty of money would be forthcoming.

A big steak at "Old Joe's" furnished him as a hearty meal. As he selected the money from his meagre supply of cash to pay the check, Old Joe bent his grizzled head forward. "Don't go hungry; come in any time."

"Thanks, Joe," he said.

Donald was in a dark mood. He heard the sound of heavy laughter coming from a saloon on the corner. There behind those swinging doors was merriment, merriment from worldly cares. He stood in the door of the restaurant and saw in a vision of the "Lions," which guarded the entrance to Vancouver's harbor. The sun was setting in a mass of fleecy clouds; the clouds became a luminous gale, and a golden splendor spread over the water. The mountains were suffused in violet, while the snow-floated on a faint stain of rose. Donald's face glowed as he watched.

"Some country!" he breathed. He turned to catch a friendly smile from Old Joe as he worked over his range. "Some people!" he said reverently.

Once more he turned to the mountains. The glow had vanished and the dense stood in bold relief against the clear sky. The massive snow-capped peaks seemed to impart a new strength to his being. "It'll not quit. I'm going to make good," he said grimly.

CHAPTER III.

While on his daily run around Stanley Park the next afternoon Donald was attracted by a horse and rider standing on Prospect Point. The rider was interested in a huge white lion plowing her way through the Narrows, lurching a head tie. The horse, a noble animal, with full mane and tail, was restive, rocking and prancing in his eagerness to be let.

"When Donald lifted his eyes to the rider he saw a beautiful, haughty face with skin of a milky whiteness, a heavy mass of dark brown hair. There coiled under a black velvet hat, and a pair of wonderful brown eyes that suddenly grew cold.

A shiver of dirt and pebbles stung

Donald's face as the horse was swung about as though on a pivot and with its rider was off like a wind.

"A thoroughbred," he exclaimed, as he watched the rider until she turned a corner in the drive. "Two of them! And I think I am a low-down masher," he added ruefully.

That afternoon he went through fifteen rounds of boxing, finishing strong and fresh to tackle pugilism and punching-bag.

Andy was loyal. "It will never go twenty rounds, my kid. That straight left of your alone would stop 'em in 'art that time."

"This is my last day of road-work," remarked Donald, to his friend on Friday afternoon, as he slipped on his running shoes.

As he and Douglas neared Prospect Point Donald's thoughts turned to the girl of yesterday. "She was haughty as a princess." Unwittingly he had spoken his musings aloud.

"Who's that?" queried his companion.

"I was talking to myself," laughed Donald.

"But sign! You are either in love or old age has overtaken you. Too bad!" Douglas wagged his head as he spoke.

"I may as well tell you," confided Donald. "I saw a Greek goddess mounted on an Arabian charger yesterday."

Douglas threw out his hand tragically. "Donald, my poor friend! I am afraid that I hit you too hard in that last round," he said in a voice of mock compassion.

Donald stopped short. "Look! he cried, pointing excitedly. "There she is!"

"It'll be blamed!" exclaimed Douglas.

"Don't grieve, but don't see a peach?" said Donald admiringly.

Douglas burst out laughing. "Do you know who that lady is?" he asked with a peculiar infection.

"I told you— a Greek goddess, mount!"

"That's my sister, Janet," interrupted Douglas.

Donald's mouth opened. He stared at his friend. "Your what?" he exploded.

"Oh, I forgot! Poor fellow!" said Douglas, solicitously, as his face assumed a mournful expression. "It'll certainly have to pull my punches hereafter." He leaned toward Donald and placed his lips close to his ear.

"Don't you be," he whispered. "She's the old bean gray it!"

"Out the comedy," growled Donald as he jerked Douglas to the side of the road out of sight of the equestrienne. "Good heavens! Your sister!" he growled. "and she thinks I am a masher!"

"Why should she think that of you?" Donald told him of yesterday's experience.

"This is great!" chuckled Douglas. "Come and meet my sister, Donald. I'll tell her that you can help bring, and that will fix things up all right. I'll call her." He grinned facetiously.

"Don't you dare! You— a masher!" Douglas avoided Donald's wild clutch, ran to the centre of the road and waved his arm.

"Oh, Janet," he shouted.

Donald shook an angry fist at his tormentor and sprang to the shelter of the trees. There was a thud of hoofs, a spluttering of gravel, and the sound of crackling leather.

"What in the world are you doing here in that dress, Doug?" asked Janet.

"Janet," said her brother in a low, mysterious voice, "I've got the fellow that tried to flirt with you yesterday; he's in there." He pointed to the bush.

The poor fellow is a confirmed flirt; has it in his worst form. I beg of you, sister, be lenient, be merciful. He thinks you are a Greek goddess. I've tagged his forehead significantly.

Donald cursed the irrepressible youth's sense of humor. If he could have reached the humorist at that moment he would have pitched him into the lake without compunction.

Janet eyed her brother with disapproval. "What are you talking about, Doug? Have you taken leave of your senses entirely?"

"It will bring forth the erring knight for you to censure," rejoined her brother, lowering his eye in exasperated defiance. "He'll be shouted, leave thy woody lower, Sir Don, the goddess awaits thee."

Seething inwardly, Donald tried to appear dignified as he stepped to the road, but the attempt was a dismal failure. How could one approach anything like dignity when dressed in a pair of running trunks, a torn and frayed jersey, socks turned down over a pair of dirty tennis shoes, and without hat or coat? All this added to the fact that he faced a battery of two big brown eyes, who thought him a masher. The greatest actor in the world would fail to register dignity under such conditions. He had a confused remembrance of a jumble of words that went for a formal introduction. He felt his face hot, and knew he was blushing furiously, which did not add to his composure.

The girl looked down curiously, but not without interest, at the embarrassed young man.

Donald finally mustered courage to glance up at the face above him. The deep brown eyes regarding him said in his humor, "I would not have parted to show a flash of white, even teeth."

"It is a pleasure to meet you," said the girl with such gracious circumstances," stammered Donald. He turned to glance at the grinning cause of his discomfiture. "I would suggest, Miss Renne, that you have a doctor waiting at your home, as I intend to commit mayhem on the person of your brother as soon as you have gone."

Inspiration From Commemorate Things

Door-Knocker gave Beethoven idea for "Glorious Concerto."

To an ordinary mind it would be scarcely seem possible that such music could be got out of a door-knocker. Yet it was this sound which is said to have inspired Beethoven's glorious violin concerto in D. As the musician lay awake one night shagging the concerto in his mind, his musings were interrupted by a belated neighbor who was endeavoring to arouse his roommate and get her to come down and let him in. Beethoven heard his persistent knocking for admission—four slow deliberate knocks at a time. The constant repetition gave the composer the idea he sought and those four knocks are heard all through the opening movement of the concerto, which begins with four unaccompanied D's on the drum—seemingly so unmelodious and unpromising an opening phrase as one could imagine.

In commenting upon the circumstances Sir George Grove has said: "These four notes were to Beethoven what the hulk of the old Tengerare was to Turner, or the dafoils to Wordsworth—concomitants in themselves but transmuted by the fire of genius into an imperishable monument."

TOOTH TURNS BLACK Your white pearly teeth have perhaps excited the admiration of your friends and your pride in them is fairly rampant.

But one day a tooth that you had been intending to have "fixed" ceased to bother you until it was by you not. It was a tooth that had been intended to have "fixed" ceased to bother you until it was by you not. It was a tooth that had been intended to have "fixed" ceased to bother you until it was by you not.

Or, perhaps, your dentist because of your neglect found it necessary to remove the pulp from a tooth, following which operation you found some dismay that it had changed color, and noticeably cause in contrast to its fellows.

Now, what has caused it? Contrary to your idea, possibly, a tooth gets its shade, not from the outer enamel covering, which is almost colorless, but from the array of colors in the underlying body of dentine.

As a sequence to pulp death and decomposition, we have a disintegration of the blood elements with the production of pigments or color compounds. These permeate the dentinal structure through its many little tubuli and are visible through the almost transparent enamel, giving the tooth its shade. This is the principal source of discoloration.

A less frequent cause is from the use of remedial agents employed in tooth treatments, many of which have the property of staining the dental substance.

Now, unfortunately, as you can see, all of the scouring that you may do is of no avail—like the historic spot of "Macbeth"—it will not "out."

However, your dentist by employing bleaching agents within the tooth cavity can with fair success restore the shade, if the discoloration has not remained too long.

Range Cattle From Alberta Bring Large Sum in Chicago

Ninety-three head of dry cows from the McIntyre range in Alberta were recently consigned to Chicago in exchange for a $10,000 cheque. Cattleman looking over the shipment claim that it is one of the finest lots of range cattle ever forwarded from Calgary. The heaviest animal in the lot tipped the scales at 1,700 pounds and the ninety-three averaged 1,350 lbs. These cattle come from one of the few remaining old-time ranches which is running a herd of upward of 5,000 Hertsfords.

Protect Submarine Crews

Italian Has Invention That May Prove of Great Value

Cesare Borghetti, inventor of an apparatus for saving the lives of submarine crews in case of danger, has succeeded in interesting the Italian government in his invention and now gives the press some details of his amazing invention.

Signor Borghetti's apparatus consists of several hollow cylinders attached to the sides of the submarine in such a way that they will remain its passage through the water. The number of these cylinders depends on the number of men in the crew.

The outer chambers are reached by two doors from the interior of the vessel. Inside of each of these cylinders is another airtight chamber with four compartments holding compressed air.

When the shipwrecked crew is inside the inner chamber and the doors are tightened, a lever releases it from the outer cylinder which is firmly attached to the side of the submarine. The cylinder containing the men is constructed in such a manner that it will float automatically to the surface even from a depth of 600 feet.

Opening of Bay Route

Suggestion Is Made to Hold Monster Excursions From All Parts of Canada

By way of establishing an "entente cordiale" with Messrs. Thrasher, secretary of the United Farmers of Canada, Saskatchewan section, suggests that the opening of the Hudson Bay trade route to Great Britain be celebrated by a huge excursion from all parts of the country, the mid-western states and Great Britain, the meeting place to be on the shores of the bay.

Mr. Thrasher also suggests that at the same time the Federal government should take steps to eliminate all trade restrictions with the Mother Country and bend every effort toward centralizing the huge purchasing power of western Canada in Great Britain, where, he points out, the western farmers sell the bulk of their products.

He believes that this would be the first logical step towards solution of the problem of the Hudson Bay trade route, and that something should be done when the west is more closely linked with the Old Country by the opening of the Hudson Bay route.

"Western Canada sells its surplus products in Great Britain," he says, "and accordingly should buy manufactured products required from that source. No country can carry on successfully by selling on one market and buying from another. Someone will have to suffer. The lack of balance will eventually be felt."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON OCTOBER 18 SPIRITUAL GIFTS

Golden Text: "Now abideth faith, hope, love, these three; and the greatest of these is love."—1 Corinthians 13:13.

Devotional Reading: 1 John 4:7-10.

Explanations and Comments

Spiritual Gifts are Diverse, But the Spirit is the Same, 12:4-7.—There was rivalry among the Corinthians as to which of them possessed the greatest gift for God's service. The tendency at Corinth was to estimate spiritual gifts by their showy rather than their solid character. The reverse was Paul's way.

"The things we consider most remarkable may after all, be least important. An ecstasy is pleasant, but strength to endure with fidelity is more significant. The touchstone and test of our Christianity is our power of our Christ. It is in our souls we own him Lord and we are assured of the Spirit of Life." (John Gardner.)

There are different gifts, Paul wrote the Corinthians, but the same Spirit reveals himself in them all; there are different ways of manifestation, but of them all is the same Lord; there are different sorts of gifts, but they are all wrought by the same God. To each one is given his manifestation of the Spirit for the good of others.

Then in verses seven to eleven Paul mentions various spiritual gifts and repeats that, different as they are, they are all in the same Lord. Paul does not disparage spiritual gifts, he realizes their value, but he realizes also the need of co-operation in the church, and this he enforces in verses 12-30, by his figure of the body and its members, as all of the members are different but essential to the body, so it is with the church and its members.

Descriptive Atlas of Canada

100,000 Copies Distributed to School Children in Old Country

School children in the British Isles will this year receive over 100,000 copies of a descriptive atlas of Canada, provided by the Department of Immigration. This is part of an intensive publicity to induce migration to Canada.

The atlas is distributed free to students in the Old Country, through the central office of the department in London. Agents of the department travel through the country in demonstration vans, carrying exhibits descriptive of Canadian industries, and they lecture at the various schools.

Copies of the atlas are left with the schoolmasters. Large wall maps are also provided.

The book comprises eighty pages, and is stated to compare favourably with the geographies used in Canadian schools. Besides a large number of colored maps, it contains literary material, with the payment of statistics, climate and industries of the various provinces. Special emphasis is placed on the opportunities open to those who wish to settle on Canadian farms. The maps have been prepared by the Natural Resources Intelligence Branch of the Department of the Interior, and are stated to be of the most modern type.

The atlas is eagerly received by teachers, officials indicate, and is claimed to have very much to do with the increasing desire by young people to look towards Canada as their future home.

Large numbers of the book are also in demand in the United States and thousands of requests for copies have been received from American schools. In congratulating Canadian officials on the excellence of the book, teachers over the border admit that geographies used in their schools give a very restricted and often inaccurate conception of this country. The atlas is particularly in demand in the farming areas in the central States.

British Harvesters On Return To England Speak Well Of Canada

London. British harvesters who returned to Great Britain recently landing at Liverpool from the liner Andania, strikingly refuted complaints concerning conditions in Canada brought back by other harvesters. There were many harvesters from the Andania who had been quite successful in the Dominion.

The majority of the men returning recently said they had found steady employment in Canadian fields at wages of from three to four dollars a day. Some of them were able to pay their passages home at the special rate of $60.

One harvester from Wigan, after paying his passage home had $60 in his pocket. A striking example of the kindness shown many of the harvesters by Canadian farmers was given by one young Briton named Hearn. Hearn said he was taken ill while working in the fields and the farmer and his wife not only took care of him during his illness but paid him for three days at the rate of $3 a day.

The harvesters who returned recently were very bitter over the terms in Canada of what they termed the "Communist scheme." They stated, however, that the scheme as soon as the harvesters landed in Canada. Their influence had been so great that in many instances Canadian farmers, before employing men, asked whether they were Communists.

Turned Adrift In Leaky Boat

Quebec Liquor Commission Inspects Threatened With Death By Captors

Montreal.—Joseph A. Patry, Quebec liquor commission inspector, was kidnapped by bootleggers at Rivière Du Loup. He managed to reach shore by paddling his craft with an old piece of wood.

Patry was instructed to probe suspected illegal transportation of liquor by boat to New Brunswick, and with two companions set out for a large gasoline yacht which was anchored a short distance from the shore. The boat was started, but before his assistants could mount the boat, the yacht's engine was started and the yacht set out for the middle of the river. Patry tried to draw his revolver, but his arms were seized from behind and he was warned if he raised an outcry he would be killed, and his body thrown overboard.

Later on the officer was lowered into a leaky rowboat and left to his fate. The matter has been reported to the authorities.

Fire Takes Four Lives

When Farm House Near Brandon Was Completely Destroyed

Brandon, Man.—Four persons were burned to death when the farm house of Alex Wilson, near Moore Park, Man., was destroyed by fire.

The dead, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, Mervin Wilson, their son, and Miss Sarah Wilson, Mr. Wilson's sister.

The fire was discovered by I. M. Harrison, a neighbor, when he was awakened by the reflection of the flames upon his windows. He put on his clothes and rushed out to cover that the Wilson house was on fire. The blaze was too far advanced at the time to permit rescue work.

W. E. Mann, general storekeeper at Moore Park, father of Mrs. Wilson, said quickly on the scene, but the heat was so intense that he could not get into the building.

All of the bodies were recovered. The cause of the fire is a mystery. The barn, garage and other buildings on the farm were unharmed.

Odd Accident To Airplane

Ottawa.—An unusual forced landing at Black Lake, Que. in which the pilot and four passengers escaped unharmed, was reported to the board by the Canadian Transcontinental Airways.

Engine trouble forced down a plane piloted by J. Vachon. An effort was made to land on the ground but the momentum carried the machine out on the water. A serious crash was only avoided because the plane was of amphibian type it was stated. The left wings of the aircraft were slightly damaged.

Arriving on the liner Mailestic with Lady Allenby, General Allenby received an official salute of 17 guns from the army reservation on Governor Island as the city's reception boat Macom carried him from the liner to the battery at the Southern tip of Manhattan Island.

The British hero spoke of the growing tendency toward "open diplomacy" among nations but saw no sign for great disarmament at present.

"I do not believe there is anyone in the world who does not want peace if they can get it," he said. "However, one has to be ready for war, as you do not keep burglars out by leaving the door unlocked."

Believes River Under Control Of Dominion

Hon. N. W. Rowell Says Federal Rights Not Limited To Tidal Waters

Ottawa.—The Dominion parliament has authority to declare the existence of a public right of navigation over any river navigable in fact. Before the Supreme Court of Canada, Hon. N. W. Rowell, K.C., counsel for the Dominion, made this further contention on the question of federal and provincial control respecting navigation and water works.

"If public right to navigation does not exist, as Ontario suggests, on the Great Lakes and the western portion of the St. Lawrence, Mr. Rowell proceeded, then under the British North American Act and the powers of the Dominion in regard to navigation and shipping, the Dominion must have power to take action in the interests of having a national highway for trade and commerce in Canada. My contention is that the Dominion has absolute control over navigation and shipping."

Killed By High Power Wire

Subway, Ont.—A man and his wife met death by electrocution in front of their home while neighbors looked helplessly on. Frank Gervais, Pearl street, and his favored the victims.

He was using a mop and a broom handle for a dangerous task when the end of the wire flew up, the end touching his wrist and his wife immediately caught hold of him and she too received the full force of the terrific charge of electricity.

Would Make Travelling In Empire Easier

Plan To Abolish Passports From One Part To Another

Toronto, Ont.—A campaign for the abolition of the requirements of the British Government that British-born travelers going from one part of the British Empire to another should possess passports, will be conducted by the Canadian Steamship and Navigation Association, the association decided recently.

Members of the Association are confident that, in this move, they have the sympathy of the traveling public, who have to abide by "this unnecessary trouble." They will endeavor to bring to bear upon the British Government through the Department of External Affairs—sufficient strong evidence to have this class of passport eliminated.

Harvesters Have Good Year

Men Returning East With More Money Than When They Came

Winnipeg, Man.—Harvesters returning to eastern Canada are taking home with them more money than is usually the case. This is due to the exceptionally fine weather which has favored the operations and to the prompt action of harvesting because of the unusually heavy crop.

The men returning by tens and dozens, some to eastern Canada and some to Great Britain, are well satisfied with the money they have made. Canadian officials said recently that the average harvesters' intention of returning to secure permanent citizenship of the West.

Empire Party Was Well Pleased With Reception In Canada

Sydney, N.S.—Delegates of the Empire Parliamentary Association have made their farewells to Canada. "We have been treated like princes. We have been received like old friends," exclaimed Viscount Peel, chairman of the delegation, addressing a final dinner given by the Canadian club and city of Sydney. And to his list of farewell and gratitude were added those of representatives from every parliament in the Empire.

In their journeyings through Canada, Lord Peel felt, members of the British delegation had been able to hold a wide range of views. He thought in some quarters apparently that the Empire marketing board was an instrument for pushing British goods in Empire markets. In reality it was designed to push Empire goods in the British market and then have the rest of the world. It had been thought, in some quarters, that the unemployment insurance, mislabeled the date, was demoralizing charity. In reality the employee paid his share to a fund pool was entitled to a right to his insurance payment when the curse of unemployment fell upon him.

"We have heard it suggested," Lord Peel added, "that we are to be met by a committee of the kind Canada has with inefficient unemployed to be repulsed with all my force this is a foolish suggestion, but there are, I am convinced, great opportunities in Canada, with good organization, for the employment of able and willing workers from our country who will form a fine type of Canadian citizen."

He further discussed the opportunities for the extended investment of capital from Great Britain and the other Dominions and the need for the Empire to be necessary for accurate information so that there will be no disappointment to the investor.

The matter will pay for his farm in 20 years and the interest rate on the mortgage will be six per cent.

In regard to the financing of this scheme, the scheme is quite unusual.

The Canadian department of immigration, through the land settlement board, is now offering a new plan, which will issue land bonds bearing interest at 4½ or 5 per cent. The bonds will be guaranteed by the British Government as to principal and interest.

It is said that the British government is willing to limit its liability to ten per cent, but this is not the proposal here.

The electricity is looked forward to with much anxiety by the majority of our townspeople who have gone to considerable expense in wiring and installing the fixtures. The 'juice' was promised by fall, and so far there has been nothing definite given out by the Company. Weather conditions have been ideal and the line from Red Deer was constructed in plenty of time to have the current turned on before this.

A number of the members of the Board of Trade attended the banquet given at Stettler by the Board of that town.
